What I would do with a gap year

Go back to school

It's no secret that I love houses. As a realtor, I've seen lots of them and am fascinated at how preserving our buildings and structures contributes to a town's sense of community and character. I'd love to take a deep dive into historic preservation by enrolling in continuing education courses and earning a certificate degree.

What I would do with a gap year

Live in Amsterdam

I am entranced by pictures of canals and bikes and Rembrandt's art. I'd like to see them for myself. And now that my kids are grown, I'd have the flexibility to spend a year in Amsterdam and really get to know the city. I'd immerse myself in all things Dutch. I'd learn the language and the history while also taking short hops to nearby towns.

What I would do with a gap year

Train to be an EMT

My father was rescued from a car crash by an EMT and I have been grateful to that worker ever since. I'd like to give back and help others in emergency situations by learning how to be an EMT and working for an ambulance squad part time.
